

Be Water SMART

An individual, especially a young child, can drown in the time it takes to answer a phone or respond to a text message!

A B C D's of Water Safety

Message to Readers,

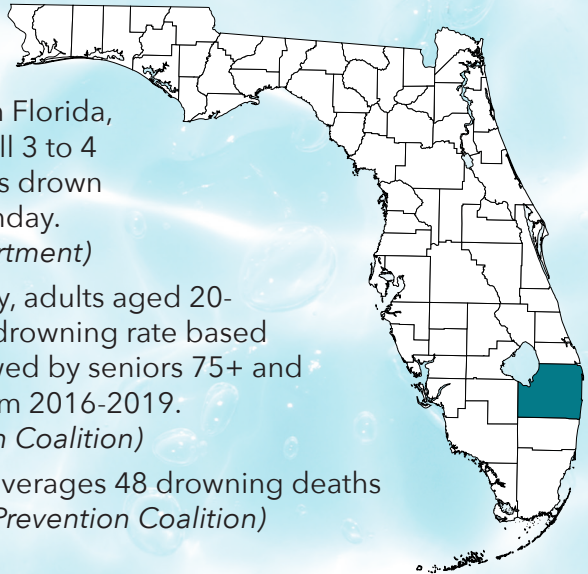

Drowning does not discriminate. Regardless of age, race, gender, socioeconomic background or swimming capability, a drowning incident can occur at any time.

The Florida Department of Health states "drowning is everyone's responsibility." Within seconds, water can be dangerous and deadly. It only takes up to two inches of water for a person to drown. In the case of a water related incident, it's important to know what to do.

Did You Know?

- Every day, about 10 people die from unintentional drowning. (Centers for Disease Control and Prevention)
- Florida leads the country in drowning deaths of children ages 1-4. Annually in Florida, enough children to fill 3 to 4 preschool classrooms drown before their fifth birthday. (Florida Health Department)
- In Palm Beach County, adults aged 20-25 have the highest drowning rate based on population, followed by seniors 75+ and children ages 1-4 from 2016-2019. (Drowning Prevention Coalition)
- Palm Beach County averages 48 drowning deaths per year. (Drowning Prevention Coalition)

Adult Water Watcher During Gatherings

- Rotate responsibility with other sober adults every 15 minutes, if possible (wear identifying object).
- Watch the body of water without distraction. (e.g., No cell phone, reading, talking or eating)
- Learn to Spot a Drowning Victim:

Silent - There is no spare breath to call for help.

Bobbing up and down - Mouth sinks below the water's surface, pops up just enough to breathe and sinks back down.

Stiff-armed - Instead of waving for help, arms are out to the side, hands pressed down on the water to keep afloat. Cannot even reach out to grab a life preserver.

Still - No kicking, body will be straight up and down, almost like standing in water.

Always Swim in Front of a Lifeguard

- Palm Beach County has many lifeguarded bodies of water to enjoy. Seek out these areas first!

Adaptive Aquatics*

Those with Autism and related disabilities are more susceptible to drowning, hence, the need for swim lessons.

- Ensure instructor has the necessary qualifications to teach adaptive aquatics.
- If a child goes missing, Call 911 and search nearby bodies of water; caregivers need to stress the importance of water dangers to child(ren).
- Inform first responders of the special needs individual at residence.

*Appropriate aquatic instruction and programing for individuals with disabilities.

Bathroom Safety

- Never leave a child alone in the bathroom, especially while bathing.
- Keep toilet lids closed and buckets upside down.
- Always drain bathtub after use.
- Test bath water with inside of wrist to ensure water is warm and not too hot.

Backyard Safety

- Have layers of protection and rescue equipment. (e.g., sheperd's hook, life ring, fencing w/self-latching, self-locking gate, pool alarm, gate alarm, and door alarm)
- Be on guard, if there is an emergency, Call 911; Reach a long object out to the person in trouble, while lying down on the ground; Throw an object that floats out to the person; Don't Go jumping in after someone if they are drowning, because they can drown you.
- Above ground pools, remove ladders when not in use and any toys laying about.
- Teach children to stay out of dirty water (e.g., lakes, ponds, and canals). These locations contain bacteria, animal waste, debris, and other hazards.

Classes in Swimming

Find an aquatic facility in your area for water safety swim lessons.

Swimming lessons do not replace barriers, such as pool fencing and alarms.

Swimming lessons are not a substitute for adult supervision and vigilance.

Before signing up for swim lessons, consider the following:

- Avoid programs that claim to offer drown proofing techniques. Everyone is susceptible to drowning even if they know how to swim.
- Only choose programs that offer swim instructors certified by a nationally recognized program as required by the Florida State Statutes.

Note: Water Safety Lessons do not "Drownproof" a child. Continue with lessons throughout the year to enhance life saving skills. Please call the aquatic facilities on the next 2 pages regarding information on days and times of lessons.
