Palm Beach County Local Incentive Plan was implemented on July 1, 1993.

Has the plan or strategy been implemented? If no, describe the steps that will be taken to implement the plan:

Yes, all strategies were implemented upon the adoption of the plan.

Status of Strategy - (is the strategy functioning as intended, i.e. are the time frames being met, etc.):

Palm Beach County's strategies have been functioning as intended and are within the time frame of required expenditures.

Support Services

Palm Beach County has partnered with several not-for-profit organizations to provide pre-purchase housing education workshops to very low - moderate income residents seeking homeownership.

Eight (8) HUD Certified Housing Counseling Agencies provide foreclosure prevention/loss mitigation counseling to income eligible applicants seeking foreclosure prevention assistance.

Palm Beach County Community Services Department, as a contract service provider, provides financial assistance to income eligible applicants to pay rental security deposits, utility deposits and connection fees.

Palm Beach County, through its Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program, has several sub-recipients that provide public services for the community. These services include transitional housing, respite care, meal delivery services, fair housing enforcement, job training, mortgage and rental assistance.

The County Transportation and Tri-Rail train system provides public transportation throughout Palm Beach County. Senior citizens, disabled residents, and students receive a discount rate.

Other Accomplishments

News articles will be submitted electronically to Florida Housing Finance Corporation

Ceremony today for the largest Habitat for Humanity project in Palm Beach County

By BILL DIPAULO

Palm Beach Post Staff Writer

Posted: 5:45 a.m. Wednesday, March 30, 2011

A ceremony to mark the completion of the final house in Kennedy Estates, the largest Habitat for Humanity project in Palm Beach County, is scheduled for today at 5 p.m.

Local and county officials plan to gather at 6815 Hurston Court, a house to be occupied by Vickie and Terence Thomas and their three children – Terence, 11, Terras, 5, and Therese, 8 months.

"This will help build a foundation for our children and their children to come," Vickie Thomas said.

The 5-acre Kennedy Estates property, near the southeast corner of Indiantown Road and I-95, was donated to Habitat by Palm Beach County three years ago. Habitat raised about $2.6 million to buy materials and pay contractors to build the 27 Kennedy Estates single-family houses.

The non-profit organization based in Atlanta has built 112 houses in Palm Beach County since starting in 1986, said Habitat of Humanity Palm Beach County Executive Director Bernard Godek.

The county's second-largest Habitat project is the 14-home Westgate Village in West Palm Beach.

The next Habitat project is under way on the south side of Jupiter Gardens Drive, near Hurston Court. The 19 homes in Kennedy Estates II are scheduled to be done in June 2013.

With families, Palm Beach County's largest Habitat neighborhood is complete

By BILL DIPAOLO

Palm Beach Post Staff Writer

Updated: 6:01 p.m. Saturday, March 26, 2011

Posted: 5:37 p.m. Saturday, March 26, 2011

If it wasn't for Habitat for Humanity, Jamelton Cabrera and his three children would never have learned a how to grow fruit trees.

The Cabrerias were one of the first families to move into the 5-acre development off Indiantown Road in 2008, the largest project in Palm Beach County for the Atlanta-based organization. Like his neighbors in the other 26 single-family homes, Cabrera contributed about 500 hours of "sweat equity" and met income requirements.

"We would not have been able to afford a home without Habitat," said Cabrera, who was renting a townhouse west of Lantana before he and his family moved into the home on Kennedy Estates Boulevard. "We've met great neighbors. The kids love the back yard. This is a great place."

On Wednesday, Vickie and Terence Thomas and their three kids — Terence, 11, Terras, 5, and Therese, 8 months — will be the final family to move into the well-kept neighborhood of blue, green and yellow homes.

The Kennedy Estates property, in an unincorporated pocket near the southeast corner of Indiantown Road and I-95, was donated to Habitat by Palm Beach County three years ago.

Terence Thomas works at South County Medical Center, and his wife Vickie works at JFK Medical Center in Atlantis.

"This will help build a foundation for our children and their children to come," said Vickie Thomas.

Habitat raised about $2.6 million to buy materials and pay contractors to build the Kennedy Estates houses. The nonprofit organization has built 112 homes in Palm Beach County since starting in 1986. The county's second-largest Habitat project is the 14-home Westgate Village in West Palm Beach, said Habitat of Palm Beach County Executive Director Bernard Godek.

"We are building affordable housing during the worst downturn since the Great Depression. That is something to be proud of," said Godek.

The next Habitat project is under way on the south side of Jupiter Gardens Drive. The 19 homes in Kennedy Estates II are scheduled to be finished in June 2013.

Cabrera, 38, acknowledged the houses along Roosevelt Road and Booker T. Washington Boulevard around Kennedy Estates need improvement. But the whole area is getting better, he said.

"Home ownership is fantastic. I never thought I would own my own home and be outside fertilizing my own fruit trees. It's a great feeling," he said.

Real Estate News & Notes: Habitat for Humanity building Jupiter home for single father, three daughters

Friday, November 07, 2008

Wilson Norzea couldn't stop smiling as he recently attended the groundbreaking of his future home being built by Habitat for Humanity of Palm Beach County and home sponsor Jonathan's Landing Golf Club.

Joseph Pubilones Interiors will be decorating the home, which is being built in Jupiter's Kennedy Estates.

Norzea was joined by his 3-year-old twins, Anastasia and Fantasia, and their 2-year-old sister Sabrina. The single father and his daughters will be moving into their new home at the beginning of the year.

The usual shoveling of dirt took on new meaning as the young girls — given special hard hats — were in the middle of it all.

"I am so thankful the girls will now have their own space and can grow up in a beautiful, safe home that is our own," Norzea said.

"Having it decorated is like icing on the cake. I didn't know how I was going to afford all the beds and furniture!"

Joseph Pubilones met with the family last month to discuss colors and needs. The four-bedroom, two-bath home will be a welcome relief for Wilson and the girls, who are currently renting a two-bedroom apartment in Lake Worth.

Villages at Delray rental housing takes off with help of federal stimulus money

> Posted by DAve DiPino on October 12, 2009 at 8:31 AM

This artist rendering from the Auburn Group shows the "green space" bordered by one-, two- and three-bedroom housing from $750-$1,000 per month in the city's southwest corridor. The $27 million project was green lighted with a recent city commission vote.

In past years the blighted Carver Estates neighborhood has been vacant, but with a recent 3-2 city commission vote in favor of allowing Villages at Delray Beach developer the Auburn Group a chance at $27 million in federal stimulus money the prospect of a new 192-unit rental neighborhood on Southwest 12th Avenue could become a reality by fall 2010. The issue has divided city staff and residents alike. Some residents question if the project will be successful, and the Community Redevelopment Agency, Planning and Zoning Board and two city commissioners have serious questions if the Villages at Delray Beach project can benefit the city.

Based in Delray Beach, Auburn Group Vice President Cito Beguiristain said they consider themselves part of the community. He said the neighborhood won't be blight, but home to teachers, police and fire personnel, restaurant workers, construction workers, tradesmen and their families. Beguiristain also said the project will create jobs, job training and spike the local construction economy he said soars toward 25 percent unemployment. He said in the future many developments across the nation will mirror Villages at Delray.

"The Treasury Department and President Obama want to use this development as a model," Beguiristain said.

For more information call the Auburn Group at 561-243-6800.
