Revised 02/01/2016

Bill Reicherter is an extraordinarily successful business owner, community leader, and entrepreneur. Born in New York, his family moved to South Florida when he was a young child. He spent his childhood living in Coconut Creek, North Lauderdale, and Tamarac, until his family moved to Coral Springs. He attended JP Taravella High School. Bill was an All-County football star, playing offense, defense, and on all special teams. He led his team to the only conference championship game to date. Another great achievement Bill won in High School was a state literary award for a novel he wrote. Following his successful high school football career, Bill received a football scholarship to Carson Newman College Division 1 NAIA. He played linebacker, led his team to win several championships and was an excellent student.

Following his senior year in college and when Bill was preparing for the National Football League Scouting Combine, his father became ill. He went home to take over his father's business, placing his dream of playing in the NFL on hold. Bill's father owned a successful automotive repair shop. As a young man Bill worked alongside his father, learned the auto repair business, and became a ASE certified mechanic. As a young man, Bill's father, a military veteran, taught him the value of hard work, learning from the ground up, giving back to his community, and servant leadership. Bill's goal was to be self-employed and be able to provide jobs, hope, and security for families.

Several years later, Bill sold the family business and started a sign business. Bill now advises future entrepreneurs to learn the business prior to going forward. The first five years of the sign business were difficult. Ignoring advice from his in-laws who told him to give up and get a job, Bill persevered and found success. One of his first strategic moves was calling property owners and taking signs off their buildings for free when businesses closed. In return, they would recommend his sign service. Bill took the used signs apart and learned how to reassemble them. He needed more clients and conducted extensive industry research to position his business for success. Holsum Bakeries approached Bill to take on a very large sign job within a time frame that every large sign company turned down. Bill took on the risk of a job that had to be done within 48 hours. To successfully complete this job, Bill hired knowledgeable help and used his father's building knowledge to assist with its successful completion. Based on the success of this large job, Holsum Bakery became a long-term customer.

He then focused his sales efforts on large corporations with multiple locations. Bill acquired more customers, improved profits, and streamlined the sign production and delivery process, which made his company, Priority 1 Signs, a success. Bill and his business have been recognized in Entrepreneur Magazine and earned several awards including Construction Magazine's Top Companies and Best Local Business. Bill business have been on the cover of the International Franchise Magazine twice.

Bill has spent over 30 years working in the sign industry, experiencing years of success and failure to get him where he is today. Bill's drive, focus, and passion played an instrumental role in his recovery from the 2008 recession, where he nearly lost everything and had to rebuild. In 2018, he merged his business with the largest company in the industry. He is an equity owner in the company that acquired his business and continues to develop custom architectural signs.

WILLIAM REICHERTER / BIO

Bill also holds ownership in several small local businesses in both Palm Beach and Broward County.

Bill is also a licensed contractor in Florida and Texas. Because he has extensive industry experience in the sign construction industry, he is an Expert Witness for construction cases.

He has been involved in the City of Parkland, Broward County, and Palm Beach County community affairs. He coached little league sports, was Board Chair of the YMCA in Parkland, and a Founding Board member of Junior Achievement of South Florida.

He is the father of three grown children of whom he is extremely proud. Bill's daughter, Amanda, is happily married and works as a schoolteacher. His other daughter, Francesca, has followed in his entrepreneurial footsteps, starting a successful grassroots national nonprofit at the age of 21. Bill's youngest son, Rocco, is a full-time college student studying business with the intention of following in his father's footsteps as an entrepreneur.

Bill is a highly accomplished public speaker and author who has been highlighted in Entrepreneur magazine. He was hired by Fast Signs after the CEO was on the TV series Undercover Boss to re-write parts of their training manuals, bringing his knowledge to support others trying to gain a footing in the industry. Bill is also active in community involvement and charity work. Other achievements include poet of the year by poetry.com and awards from the Boys and Girls Club of Pompano for his work in feeding and giving presents on Christmas to those in need.

Another notable accomplishment is Bill serves as an expert witness to the construction industry, specifically in electrical and contractor / subcontractor disputes.

Currently, Bill serves as a board member for Inspiring My Generation, helping to spread mental health awareness with the goal of suicide prevention. Throughout his life, he faced many barriers and obstacles that felt impossible to overcome, but he persisted and now wants to bring his drive, skills, life experience, and lessons learned to the state, county and city level and private sector.

Bill's favorite saying that he holds himself to when serving in business or the community is, "There is no CEO more powerful than the customer because the customer can fire you and spend their money somewhere else." Bill often cites that, "there is nothing like a leader who leads by example" and those words hold true in all aspects of life.
